

PCC – We can do better!

Dorset can have better policing for the same budget

Andrew Graham was a career soldier who rose to the rank of Lieutenant General. Now he is our Dorset Conservative candidate for Police and Crime Commissioner. He has looked at the facts and says: "I see an interesting comparison with Northamptonshire Police – similar budget, same size county – for instance, they have 700 Special Constables and we have 180. I believe we can do better."

Andrew has been talking with Poole residents and says: "We live in a community-run country, so putting policing at the heart of supporting our community chimes with everyone I talk to. People here are full of praise for their Police Community Support Officers and Neighbourhood Policing teams. I find this inspiring, but I can see there is more to do."

Vote for Andrew Graham as PCC on Thursday, 5 May.
